STATE OF WISCONSIN.

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR.

In conformity with law, I, William D. Hoard, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do designate

Wednesday, April 20th Next, as Arbor Day, and recommend that all public schools and colleges of the state observe the same by suitable exercises, "having for their object the imparting of knowledge of horticulture, the department of knowledge as arboriculture, and the adornment of schools and public grounds."

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the great seal of the state of Wisconsin to be hereunto affixed, Done at the city of Madison, this 15th day of March, A. D. 1890.

WILLIAM D. HOARD.

By the Governor: ELBERT G. TITUS, Secretary of State.

BETTER JUDGMENT PRIVATE.

After the committee on ways and means had been slapped and rebuked by republicans from every part of the country for placing a duty on hides, it wisely concluded to keep them where a republican congress placed them eighteen years ago—on the free list. It is a pity for the reputation of the committee that it did not have sense and wisdom enough to let hides alone. Taxing hides is simply taxing boots and shoes, for a supply sufficient to meet the demands of home consumption can never be produced in this country. The committee was doubtless sorely tempted by the cattle barons to make a recommendation of a 15 per cent duty on hides, and it was only after hearing a storm of indignation from the people that it decided to do otherwise.

The committee did another good thing in putting sugar on the free list. On this point the report of the committee says:

The committee recommend that sugar up to and including No. 16 Dutch standard of color, and molasses, be placed on the free list, with a duty of four-tenths of one cent per pound on refined sugar above No. 16, and that a bounty of two cents per pound be paid from the treasury for a period of fifteen years for all sugar polarizing at least 85 percent made in this country from cane, beets or sorghum produced in the United States. In 1888 the consumption of sugar in the United States was 1,469,397 tons, or 531 pounds per inhabitant. Of this only 189,814 tons were produced in the United States, and 1,279,583 tons, or seven-eighths of our consumption, were imported. So large a proportion of our sugar is imported that the home production of sugar does not materially affect the price, and the duty is therefore a tax which is added to the price not only of the imported but of the domestic product, which is not true of duties imposed on articles produced or made here substantially to the extent of our wants.

It will be seen from this report and from articles which have frequently appeared in the Gazette on the subject of free sugar, that an import duty on that article cannot materially increase its product in the United States. History settles this point. With a duty of something like 80 per cent, the product of sugar has not only increased in this country, but has actually decreased, so that not more than one-eighth of the sugar consumed in the United States is produced here. These facts show the absolute uselessness of a duty on such an important article as sugar.

The annual reduction of revenue by the republicans will be in the neighborhood of seventy millions of dollars—a reduction as great as can be made consistent with the increasing cost of the government.

The democrats will oppose this new tariff bill. They will oppose it because it is republican. They will oppose the reduction of the duty on sugar because they want to protect a few democratic sugar planters in Louisiana at the expense of the people. They will oppose the bill on the principle that the democratic party opposes every great measure of reform and progress.

MR. PAYNE AND THE CHAIRMANSHIP.

A rumor that Mr. Payne will decline a reappointment as chairman of the republican state committee has fired the imaginations of the sensational newspaper correspondents and reporters, and given them a theme for multitude of surmises which are as varied in form as were the stories credited to the "intelligent contraband" from within the enemy's lines, that did service when there was no other news during the war. One form of the story is that Mr. Payne has already resigned. Another version is that he will decline a reappointment unless Governor Hoard and the Senate modify their stand on the Bennett law. A third report is that he will not decline provided the party will assume such an attitude toward the law in question as is satisfactory to the Lutheran church. Governor Hoard, it is alleged, is very stubborn, and though "strong pressure has been brought to bear on him," there doesn't seem to be much prospect of a back down on his part. The possibility that Governor Hoard will be dropped, and a new man nominated on whom the friends and the enemies of the law can unite, is also suggested by these caterers to the appetite of the public for sensational gossip. Meanwhile it is proper to say that no "rescue" has yet been brought to bear on the Bennett law, and it is possible that notwithstanding these rumors Governor Hoard has been equally neglected. Sentinel.

The report that Mr. Payne would refuse to serve as chairman of the republican state committee during this coming campaign, was premature. It is true that Mr. Payne is "valuable support business." Demands upon his time come from many quarters, and his large business interests require much personal and careful attention. He would rather be excused from serving on the committee for no other reason than that his private business suffers when he is engaged in conducting campaigns for the republican party; but he expresses himself willing to serve the party again in the coming campaign if it shall be the unanimous wish of the convention. He is willing to make this sacrifice for the benefit of the party.

Mr. Payne is one of the best campaigners in the state. Among all the leaders in the republican party he is certainly the best equipped. His strong personal influence, his ability to take in the situation, and his knowledge of men, enable him to fight a political battle with rare skill and success. He has a happy faculty of inspiring confidence in men.

INTEMPERANCE IN ENGLAND.

Mr. Goschen, chancellor of the English exchequer, has submitted a report to the house of commons showing the gross revenues from alcoholic beverages, and the figures are startling. He remarks that the figures show a universal rush to the beer barrel, the spirit bottle, and the wine decanter. Everybody seems to be anxious to contribute to the revenues of the British government by drinking as much liquor as possible. Mr. Goschen states that the gross revenues of England for the past year from alcoholic beverages were £29,385,000, or about $140,000,000, a little over fifty million more than the United States received from a like source. When one takes into account the fact that this country has some twenty millions more of population than Great Britain, while the revenue from alcoholic drinks is fifty millions less, he will be able to form an intelligent idea of the vastness of the drink bill of Britain compared with our own.

In 1888 the number of drams taken in Great Britain was set down at 245,000,000, while it had reached 275,000,000 in 1889; and Mr. Goschen says, "it was an extraordinary historical fact that in the years 1875 and 1876 the greatest drinking years recorded, there was precisely the same rush and precisely the same proportion of revenue from different spirits. Increased prosperity therefore meant increase in the consumption of alcoholic drinks."

In the United States the consumption per capita of malt liquors has increased amazingly during the past forty years. Distilled spirits have decreased from 2.52 gallons per capita in 1849 to 1.23 in 1888. Wines have increased slightly from 0.29 gallons to 0.53 gallons. But malt liquors have made the remarkable increase from 1.36 gallons in 1849 to 12.43 gallons in 1888! No wonder English syndicates want to buy all the breweries in the country.

It begins to look as if the Presbyterian church would have a new creed, a thing it has much needed for a long time. The present condition of the vote is as follows: "There are 212 presbyteries in the Presbyterian church. Of these 122 have already voted on the question whether revision is desirable, and 4 either fail or decline to vote at all. Of these 126 presbyteries thus accounted for, 82 are in favor of revision, a majority of about two to one. These presbyteries represent 3,742 ministers and 515,491 communicants. There are altogether 5,936 ministers and 752,719 communicants in the church, so that the presbyteries which have thus far voted represent a large majority of the ministers and communicants of the church." The Presbyterian church will have taken a great stride onward and upward, when, to use the language of a divine of that church, it places the tender mercies and loving kindness of God in the body of the creed instead of in a foot note.

The democrats are figuring upon the next election, and claim they will have a majority of eight or nine in the next house of representatives. This is the favorite season for counting chickens before they are hatched, and the democrats have simply fallen into the general habit of counting all the eggs as sound and good. But nobody ever bets on a democratic egg. Inter Ocean.

Let them figure. It does no one any harm, and like a childbearing it is a thumb, it affords them much satisfaction. You know in 1888, the democrats were unwilling to give the republicans any of the leading states in the north. They were going to take New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania was in doubt, and Illinois and Wisconsin were sure for Cleveland. The greatest ability the democratic managers ever displayed has been in counting unatched chickens.

There is a movement on foot, so the dispatches say, to relieve the Rev. Lynn Abbott of the pastorate of Plymouth church. This is not surprising. A man who will stand up before an audience and say that the American government is the worst possible government on the face of the earth, is not worthy of filling any pulpit on this continent. He should be relieved of his pastorate, and relieved quickly. It is a disonor to a dead pastor and a disgrace to an American church, to keep Dr. Abbott where he is.

It is remarked in view of certain incidents of late, that if an honest man is the noblest work of God he doesn't get to be a state treasurer very often. St. Paul Globe.

The Globe must not feel discouraged. All the treasurers it has in mind were democrats.

The Iowa legislature was wise in two things: It refused to disturb the temporary law of the state, and held a short session. The best point a legislature can make is to make a session as short as possible.

There was a fine bit of humor in the Rhode Island man who tried to commit suicide because he had the measles. He said he would rather die than give the disease to a whole state.

A serious misfortune has overtaken a young man named Ernest Dickinson, of Trinity college, Hartford. He has fallen heir to three million dollars.

PALEFICATION OF THE HEART, NERVOUSNESS, trembling, nervous headache, cold hands and feet, pain in the back, and other forms of "neuritis" are relieved by Carter's Iron Pills, made especially for the blood, nerves and complexion.

EXPRESS MESSENGER.

John Nolan, Mail and Express Messenger Between Freeport and Chicago, is Missing.

CONVICTS MAKE A DESPERATE FIGHT FOR LIBERTY.

Guards Assaulted in a Railway Car by Fourteen Prisoners—Other Criminal Matters.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18.—Fourteen convicts on the way to Eddyville penitentiary made a desperate attempt to escape yesterday. The convicts, chained in couples, were in the smoking-car, watched by four guards.

The train was running full speed through the mountains, and the convicts, a notorious burglar, with seven years to serve, walked with his companion to the water cooler. One of the men raised the goblet as if to drink and dashed the water in the eyes of the nearest guard, the next instant the other convict seized the guard by the throat and choked him, bringing him to his knees.

In a moment the car was in an uproar. One of the other prisoners knocked out the lights with the poker and another seized the pistol of the helpless guard and fired two shots, both taking effect in the guard's breast. In the melee Helme and his companion opened the door, leaped from the platform and escaped in the darkness. Two others rolled out of a window and also got away. The remaining guards rushed to the doors and began firing their pistols in the air. This had the desired effect, for the striped-padded passengers were so frightened that they crawled under the seats and begged for mercy.

The four men, however, had gotten safely away when quiet was restored, and as none of the guards could be spared to hunt for them, they were not pursued. Several of the passengers were in the smoking-car at the time of the firing, and they added their shrieks to those of the terrified convicts. Passengers in another car took it upon themselves to light a fire, and thinking their hand had been a wreck, and a perfect pandemonium reigned for a time.

One passenger leaped down an embankment, escaped being killed, and narrowly escaped being killed. Men, women and children joined in one mad rush for the doors. Those who had passed first fired in the air for reasons unknown, and when the smoke cleared the guards were found to be seriously but not fatally injured. One of the bullets struck a pipe in his pocket over the guard's head, who but for this would have been killed.

JOHN NOLAN MISSING.

It is Believed That an Express Messenger Has Been Fondly Dealt With.

CHICAGO, April 18.—John Nolan, a mail and express messenger, running between Freeport and Chicago, is mysteriously missing. As Nolan was known to have over $500 and a gold watch and chain, it is feared he has fallen the victim of robbers who have killed him.

Nolan left the postoffice building Tuesday afternoon, saying he would take a stroll around the city before the hour for his leaving arrived. When the time for his leaving arrived he did not appear and he has not since communicated with the postoffice officials. A search was instituted for the missing man Tuesday night and has been continued ever since. Nolan was heard of at but one place. He was at the Massasoit lodging house in the railroad district, and was under the influence of liquor.

He had with him two men, well known as desperate characters, who were diligently plying him with liquor and they finally led him away.

The matter was reported to the police to-day and a thorough search will be made for the missing man and his companions, who will be arrested if found.

SHOT DOWN IN THE STREET.

A Texas Quarrel Ends in a Deliberate Murder.

BONHAM, Tex., April 18.—Charles M. Perdue, a hotel drummer here, shot and instantly killed M. A. Harris, a candy-maker, on Main street yesterday afternoon. Harris was shot in the back while standing in front of his shop.

The two men quarrelled and fought during a balloon ascension, Harris being badly beaten in the combat, when he threatened the life of Perdue. Nothing is known of Harris except that he came here from Honey Grove, Texas, months ago, and a letter was found in his pocket, written by a sister from Ebony, Brunswick county, Va.

Perdue is from Barnesville, Ga., where his relatives now reside. He is in jail. Both men are unmarried.

A Colombian Horror.

San Jose, Costa Rica, April 18.—The Press of Yarusvia, Colombia, contains a horrible story to the effect that in the ruins of the house of a woman named Skohiski, which was destroyed in a fire there, the police have discovered more than sixty corpses, forty of infants and the others of young girls from 12 to 15 years of age. The woman was arrested and is now in prison surrounded by a strong guard to prevent her threatened lynching.

Stole the Money to Pay His Debts.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 18.—S. A. Wilms, a member of the defuncting ex-state treasurer, Archer, told the investigating legislative committee that his uncle was about $100,000 in debt when he was elected treasurer. It is inferred from this statement that Archer used the larger portion of the funds he stole from the state to pay his personal indebtedness.

Awful Tragedy at Moscow.

Moscow, April 18.—A sad tragedy resulting from extreme poverty has been enacted in this city. The widow of an army officer who was in dire want, became discouraged and she and her five daughters locked themselves in a room and turned on the gas. When found all six were dead from suffocation.

Leased to His Death.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 18.—Jacob Thorne was found dead with his head caught to a jelly at the foot of the Senate staircase, having leaped from the Senate floor to the ground floor, a distance of eighty-five feet. Thorne had been ill for some time and of late was not in his right mind.

He Stole $20,000.

CALCUTTA, April 13.—The cashier of the chartered bank of India, Australia and China is officially announced as a defaulter to that institution. It is estimated that the bank will lose $20,000.

Killed by a Jealous Husband.

DEBROU, Iowa, April 18.—J. J. Grinnell, a court reporter, shot and killed George Cornell, a locomotive engineer, at McGeorge yesterday for making too free with Mrs. Grinnell.

BRODERICK CONTRADICTED.

Fielden, Neebe, and Schwab Deny the Tale of Their Ill-Treatment.

JOLIET, Ill., April 18.—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy conspirator, ex-convict Thomas Broderick, who was received at the prison here May 4, 1889, is the author of startling public statements since he was discharged the 3d of this month.

These statements, published in Chicago papers, allege barbaric treatment of the convicts by prison officials, and especially of the anarchists Samuel Fielden and Oscar Neebe. Broderick says that he saw Fielden chained to a wall two hours for smiling when told to do a disagreeable task, and that Neebe was subjected to the most inhuman treatment.

The anarchists were shown the article containing Broderick's allegations. Each and all of them denounced it as a pack of lies and said they had never been punished, never been reported, and had never complained and had nothing to complain of. They said they had never seen Broderick and do not know him. Fielden works in the harness-shop, Neebe is door-runner in the library. They all speak in terms of great praise of their keepers and of their general treatment by the officials in charge.

NIHILISTS AT WORK.

They Set Fire to the Oranienbaum Palace—Seven People Perish.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14.—The Imperial palace of Oranienbaum has been burned to the ground with all its contents. The flames broke out in the night and spread with such astonishing rapidity that it is believed the fire was set simultaneously in different parts of the building. Seven inmates of the palace were cut off from escape and perished. The fire was the work of nihilist conspirators who had often threatened to destroy the palace.

New Hampshire Mill Hands Strike.

NASHUA, N. H., April 18.—The expected strike of the employees of the Jackson Company's mills occurred this morning. The weavers, spinners and help all going out. The mills have been shut down, but for how long is not known. 800 hands are out of employment. They will be paid off on Saturday. The weavers marched through the streets and then quietly returned home. A demand for an increase in wages caused the trouble.

Cost of Illinois Charities.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 18.—The financial record for the quarter ending March 31 of the twelve charitable and reformatory institutions of the state subject to the supervision of the commissioners of public charities shows the total average number of inmates of the institutions to have been 6,502. The average cost per capita for maintenance of these was $4.74, and the total cost was $24,481. The average number of inmates of the soldiers' home was 91.

First to Respond to Lincoln's Call.

READING, Pa., April 18.—The survivors of the Ringgold artists, better known as the "First Defenders," the first company of troops to respond to Lincoln's call for 75,000 men, celebrated the twenty-ninth anniversary of their departure for the seat of war. Their company was originally composed of 101 men. Last evening less than twenty were present. The survivors only number thirty.

Carpenters Locked Out at Portland.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 18.—About 200 union carpenters were discharged to-day in accordance with a resolution adopted by the Builders' Exchange last night. The contractor had employed a non-union carpenter, and the union men threatened to strike if he was not discharged. It was decided by the builders to discharge the union men in anticipation of a strike in May.

Compelled to Assign.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 18.—An assignment was made here this morning by S. & G. Suskind, knitting mill owners, to Seymour Beach of Amsterdam. The cause of the failure was dull trade in their goods. The liabilities are estimated at $100,000 and the assets at between $125,000 and $150,000.

Left an Estate of $2,000,000.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The will of the late Marcus Stearns was probated before Judge Cook this morning. The estate is valued at $2,000,000 and is entirely to the family of the deceased. There are no public beneficiaries.

The Fox Brothers Get a Change of Venue, and One of Them Bail.

The case of Fox Brothers, charged with firing the Croft block at Edgerton, was before Judge Patterson in municipal court today. The defendants made affidavit of prejudice to the judge, and a change of venue was ordered to the Rock county circuit court.

One of the brothers was able to get bail but the other will be compelled to stay in jail in default of some one to go his bond, $750. The bail bond of the other was signed by Mr. Stanley B. Smith by arrangements with a Milwaukee bank.

The boys took their separation hard and both choked back the sobs. The Milwaukee bank would only go security for one of them.

Both are mere boys and do not look over eighteen or nineteen years of age.

SHOT THROUGH THE WINDOW.

Conductor Al. Stickey's Train Fired upon by Some Unknown Person.

Last night as the Fond du Lac passenger train was in the vicinity of Juneau, some one opened fire on them with a revolver. The bullets came thick and fast. There was great excitement on the train—many of the passengers thinking that robbers were endeavoring to stop it. One bullet passed completely through the car, coming in one window and out in the opposite side.

Mr. E. May, the optician, of Milwaukee, was sitting in the seat at the time, the bullet passing within eight inches of his body. Dr. C. L. Clark, of this city was also on the train.

A "BONNETT PARTY."

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Nolan Entertain a Few Friends Last Evening.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Nolan entertained a few friends very pleasantly at their home, No. 201 Prospect avenue. The occasion was a "bonnet party," and it proved to be a very entertaining one.

Each lady brought a hat with the necessary materials to trim it. The gentlemen were expected to trim the hats given them, and return it to its owner.

Prizes were given for the best trimmed hat, as well as one for the worst. Mr. Will Seefeldt won the first prize, and Mr. E. R. Luman the "booby prize."

It was a late hour when the party broke up and all agreed that they had spent a most delightful evening.

IMPORTANT LAND SUIT.

Mrs. A. M. Valentine and Sister, Miss Mamie A. Lewis, vs. Valuable Lands in Lyons, Iowa.

The Chicago Times of yesterday, publishes the following, which will interest the Gazette readers, in that the ladies Mrs. Valentine and Miss Lewis, are well known residents of Janesville:

Mrs. Nettie B. Valentine and Miss Mamie A. Lewis, children of Chas. Lewis, who died in 1875, began suit in the circuit court yesterday against Matthew L. Lewis, George H. Lewis, the Chicago, Santa Fe & California, and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad companies to secure half of a 160 acre tract of land in the town of Lyons, Mr. L. Lewis took title to the quarter section from the trustees of the Illinois and Michigan canal in 1856. He conveyed one-half of the tract to Chas. Lewis and William B. Loomis. Mr. Lewis later by will, claimed his land interest in the half of the tract to Mrs. Valentine and Miss Mamie. They say that they did not know until very lately that they had any title to the property. On M. L. Lewis' death in 1855 his widow, Catherine P. Lewis, mother of complainants, took his interest of title, and in 1883 she was killed by a steamboat accident on the Mississippi river and the deeds were left with her. Upon their recent discovery that their father owned an interest in the tract the ladies bought Mr. Loomis' interest, so that their interest is clear. Matthew L. Lewis paid all taxes and the complainants offer to refund their proportion of them and want a partition. The interest of the Chicago, Santa Fe & California railroads grew out of a contract they have with L. Lewis for a right of way 100 feet wide through the tract which they have assigned to the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad.

THE MAY BRETONNE CO.

They Present "A Country Millionaire" at the Opera House.

The last but one of the week's engagements of the May Bretonne Co. was played before a good sized audience at Laspine's opera house last evening. The bill was a "Country Millionaire" and it gave excellent satisfaction.

Miss Bretonne played the part of "Rath," the simple educated country girl, to perfection, and received much favorable comment.

Miss Bretonne was ably supported by Mr. O. E. Hallam, who took the part of "Oliver Van Buren." He made a very realistic lover.

Mr. G. H. Eldon, as "Nathaniel G. Higgenbottom, professional hobo," made a hit. Mr. Eldon is a clever comedian and never fails to amuse the audience.

Clark Comstock was obliged to double the role of "Dad Lookhart, the Country Millionaire," and "Freddy Garkell, the Adventurer," but acquitted himself creditably.

Bob Sperry as "Jim Morris," was also very good.

Miss Laura Howard as "Edith Baker" was also good.

Miss Rose Stillman, as "Anastasia Winthrop," the old maid who was also in the market, was excellent.

The balance of the company were good, and gave universal satisfaction.

To-night the bill is "Stricken Blind," and they should have a full house.

To-morrow afternoon they will give a matinee, and it should be largely attended.

FREE EDUCATION FOR GIRLS.

How Girls Can Get a College Education Without Cost.

A most praiseworthy movement is about to be set on foot by The Ladies' Home Journal of Philadelphia. It proposes to give to any young girl of 16 years or over who will send to it, between now and January 1st, 1891, the largest number of yearly subscribers to the Journal, a complete education at Vassar College or any other American college she may select. The education offered includes every branch of study with every expense paid, the Journal agreeing to educate the girl irrespective of the time required or the expense involved. To this is also pinned a second offer which guarantees to any girl of 16 or over who will secure 1000 yearly subscribers before January 1st, a full term of one year at Vassar or any other preferred college, with all expenses paid, thus making it possible for any number of young girls to receive free education at the best colleges. Any girl can enter to the competition, and any such can be thoroughly posted by simply writing to the Ladies' Home Journal at 435 Arch street, Philadelphia. The management says that it has been led to its generous offers by the fact that there are thousands of parents throughout the country anxious to educate their daughters, and yet who cannot afford the expense. This step helps to a comparatively easy solution of the problem, since it throws a free education into the hands of any bright and active girl. The Journal movement is one that certainly cannot be too highly commended and praised.

BASE-BALL WARD AND HIS WIFE

Returns to the Stage Because She Is Separated from Her Husband.

New York, April 18.—The fact that Helen Maury Ward is living apart from her husband, John M. Ward, the famous base ball player, and is about to return to the stage, formed the basis for a story that Mrs. Ward's husband had quarreled on account of her unwillingness to give up the stage, and that papers for a legal separation were being filed.

Mrs. Ward said last night: "It is true that Mr. Ward and myself have been separated for nearly three months. The whole balance of the separation is put upon my shoulders. It is charged to the trouble arose over my desire to return to the stage. This is not true. That has nothing to do with our separation, and Mr. Ward knows it. I go back to the stage because I am separated from my husband. I am not separated from my husband because I want to go back to the stage; there is a vast difference between the two. I have never done anything as a wife that my honest woman would disclaim."

On Monday next Mrs. Ward, accompanied by Mrs. Tim Kere, her sister, will start for California, to be absent about six weeks. John M. would say nothing except that he and his wife were not living together.

FEMININE NOTES.

The women of Milford, Me., have built a town hall. They were two years collecting the money together, which they collected by giving fairs, oyster suppers and other entertainments.

The latest thing in women's clubs is the Ladies' Ride Club of Bermuda, which is vigorously supported and well attended. The Governor's wife is the president, herself, no mean person, while the ride, while the club numbers nearly seventy members.

The State Reformatory Prison for Women at Sherborn, Mass., is managed altogether by women, financially and otherwise. The superintendent is Mrs. Johnson. The affairs of the establishment have been so well conducted that the receipts for labor done by the women are constantly increasing.

Jane Harding's chief points of beauty are her hair, which she keeps in a certain chemical water which does not dye the hair, but which makes it more brilliant and the effect of making it wavy with a tendency to curl. Her hair is never curled with irons, and the arrangement of it has long been a subject of envy among the ladies in society.

The Queen dowager of Portugal, an Italian Princess, married at the age of fifteen, was very extravagant in her ideas. It is reported that on one occasion she brought home from Paris 1,000 pairs of shoes. On another occasion she ordered sixty-nine dresses from Worth and on the way home they were lost at sea. Not dissatisfied in the least, she duplicated the order.

A well known Anna Dickinson says that she seems to possess the secret of eternal youth. If you did not know her you would think it impossible to tell her age. In figure she is below medium height and slender, though she gives you the impression of being strongly made. Her eyes are gray and large, her complexion is clear and dark, her mouth is set in firm lines and her hair is short, and of a rich, warm brown. Her expression is one of force and power.

An English court has just decided that a wife married in Japan after the fashion of that country is a legal wife in England. The court held that Japan has long been recognized as a civilized country. "A previous decision in a case where the wife was a Hottentot, and had been married in that country, had upon the notion on the ground that the Hottentots were heathens and polygamists, and did not know what marriage in the civilized sense meant."

The corsets worn by Mrs. Langtry are of plain satin in pink, mauve or white. They are extremely long, and have two very broad bones down the front that are under-laced with plush, so that they do not hurt the back, but give support in the back, where the corsets lace, and this has to be done every day exactly as our grandmothers did it many years ago. Mrs. Langtry does not believe that a corset should be worn in any way except the figure. Hers are made in Paris and cost $40 apiece.

The Portuguese men are rather below the medium height, of olive complexion, and have brilliant black hair. But with all most part they are very handsome. The women, on the contrary, are excessively homely, but dress in very good taste. Both gentlemen and ladies copy the latest fashion. The prettiest women are the fisher maids, who go about the streets barefooted with their baskets of fish on their heads, after the manner of the Italian women who are the pickers of water. Some of these girls are remarkably pretty, and, strange to say, their feet are small and delicate looking and their forms graceful.

Rev. Garrie Bartlett, who is becoming widely known as a successful preacher in the Unitarian ministry at Kalamazoo, is young and more than commonly attractive, with an oval face, regular features and large soft eyes. Her hair is brown and curls about her face. It is gathered in a soft knot at the nape of the neck behind. Her voice is pleasantly clear and strong, and she has a warm presence in the expressive face, which is at once sensitive and reposeful. She does not affect either the masculine or the effeminate, but is a woman of a black gown with white collar and a wide, rather picturesque, black hat with drooping ostrich plumes.

MEN'S FASHION NOTES.

A musical match-safe is among the latest novelties.

Emeralds are being revived for scarfpins, cuff-buttons, and fob-chains.

Tailors all along the line report a growing demand for the double-breasted vest.

Underwear fashioned in club colors is shown for the benefit of athletic enthusiasts.

The half-box overcoat promises to be the favorite for spring. It will be seen in a variety of fancy colors, such as fawn, mauve, light brown, electric blue, etc.

Fancy colors in hats are dying. For spring only the cheaper grades of hats, which will be seen in other than black and dark brown. The soft hat will displace the right of way with the derby, which has for several years had the ears.

Call for Vienna Flour.

Ask your grocer for Pearl White Flour. Crown Jewel and White Lion Flour are both choice brands.

HINDOO WOMEN'S WORK.

There are 123,409 mercantile women in India.

The section devoted to lawyers includes ten women only.

Women are members of the national government number 6,352.

Eight hundred and thirty-five women are officers of independent States and governments.

Three thousand four hundred and sixty-four women appear as authors and literary persons.

No fewer than 17,764 women figure as "officers of municipal, loan, and village government."

The respectable total of 94,254 women appear as clerks, ministers, church and temple officers.

Twenty-seven thousand seven hundred and forty-one women are employed in the construction of houses and other buildings.

As physicians, surgeons, and druggists, without any possibility of a qualification of a mental kind, there are 75,320 women.

There are 358 employed in the building of ships, 13,799 workers in precious metals and stones, 354,721 in stones and clay, and 5,244,305 simply classed as "laborers."

Five hundred and eighty-four are tabulated as artists, 19,631 as musicians, 4,245 as teachers, 127 as scientific "persons," the largest of all to the uninitiated, 40,381 as actresses.

The wives of specified occupation number 471,774 (exclusive of 18,663,776 agriculturists, and "other wives" number only 3,321,366. Where the balance of 30,000,000 or 40,000,000 appear is not so far discoverable.

Altogether about 26,000,000 women appear as engaged in some description of classified work—roughly, a little less population, with the inclusion of an enormous proportion of infants and young girls.

A STRANGE BIRTHMARK.

The Peculiar Formation on the Person of a Baltimore Man.

The publication in a recent issue of the Baltimore Times of a description of the singular birth-mark borne by a young man, which was said to have an exact face-simile of a blackberry, has excited not a little interest here, says a Baltimore correspondent of that paper, and stories have been told of the curious mark that has been carried by a young man living in this city. An investigation resulted in the discovery of the party in question in the person of Morgan Kittredge, who is quite well-known in the eastern section of the city. Though reluctant to have his name mentioned, Mr. Kittredge was persuaded to exhibit his curious birth-mark, and finally to talk about it, giving the following description of what may truly be called a freak of nature:

"It lies on my right thigh and is the image of a fish, perfect in every respect, even to the scales," he said, "and is of a dead white color like the most of a brook trout. It causes me no pain or inconvenience, except when I attempt to eat fish of any description, when it will begin to ache and burn until I am obliged to make use of an emetic."

"I believe that, were I to persist in eating fish, death or madness would be the result, for after each attempt I have made my curious mark remains red and irritable for days. When in a bath, however, it will throb and quiver almost as if it were alive, and so as to be perceptible to the eye. It is nearly four inches long, and rises a quarter of an inch above the surrounding flesh, from which it is well defined, as if merely laid upon it. It lies head downward, with the tail slightly elevated as if floundering, and the fins are distended."

"The fish is perfectly distinct, only the eye is missing, being represented only by a small pit. I know of no reason for the mark, but while it does not seem to be a particle of blood in the mass I believe it to be closely connected with my vitality, for whenever I am ill it takes on a pallid, livid hue, and seems to shrink."

THE MOUTH OF A SNAIL.

Its Teeth Are Fixed on a Ribbon Like That in a Typewriter.

The mouth of the snail is armed with a very formidable instrument, in the shape of a remarkable saw-like tongue. Probably you have, at some time or another, noticed how clearly cut are the edges of a leaf upon which a snail has been regaling himself. It is difficult to imagine how such a soft and fleshy-looking animal can have made such clean incisions. But with an examination of the cutting instrument concealed in his mouth wonder on this score vanishes. It resembles a long, narrow ribbon coiled in such a manner that only a small portion of it is called into use at once. Thickly distended over the entire surface of this ribbon are an immense number of extremely sharp little teeth, designed in a manner which admirably adapts them to the purpose for which they are intended. The quantity of these teeth is incredible—one species, for instance, has been indisputably proved to possess as many as 80,000 of them. The reason for their disposition on the coiled ribbonlike surface lies in the fact that by use they become worn away. As this happens, the ribbon is uncoiled, and the teeth which before were wrapped up in it, at the back of the snail's mouth, come forward to take the place of those which have been worn out. The upper part of the mouth consists of a horny surface against which the sharp-toothed tongue works. A leaf which is to be operated upon is caught between the two and subjected to a regular filelike rasping on the part of the tongue. So effective an instrument does this form that the tough leaves of the lily may often be found to be entirely rasped off by it.

WHITE GOWNS ON THE STAGE.

Why Actresses Always Choose Them for Death Scenes.

I have often been asked why actresses usually play "death scenes" in white dresses. My only explanation is this: Where death scenes are played, where the heroine dies—she has been a woman who has sinned herself, and makes the only expiation in her power, death, or one who has been sinned against and dies to pay the penalty of another's sin. It is always desirable to send your audience home with their sympathy and affection on your side, if possible (that is, if you play the part of the heroine). The influence of a white gown on the audience, to gain the result is marvellous. The very color of it hints of repentance, angels, redemption, purity, forgiveness, while Lillian Lewis in the City Times, Mrs. Mabel, Juliet, Camille (Lidia Isabell, in East Lynne, dies in her night gown, and, very properly, Adrienne, etc., in a white dress, as a proof of the state of mind of actresses who have a penitence in death scenes play them in white robes.

Calling for Stores.

A chimney in steady use in the kitchen ought to be cleaned once every two or three years to insure draft. Some chimneys may draw well for years without cleaning, but they are exceptional. If the kitchen fire does not come up clear and bright in half or three-quarters of an hour after it is started, there is something radically wrong about the draft. As often as once a month all the oven flues should be cleaned. This is not a pleasant task, but it is necessary.

A Long Fall.

Two children playing upon a grassy slope at Auchmuty, Scotland, slipped and rolled down to the edge of a deep precipice, 145 feet high, over which they fell to the beach below. Those who ran to gather up their mangled remains found them on their feet in the sand in a general state of mental bewilderment, and with no worse injuries than a few scratches.
